Philip Sher Essays Due March Fifth Top Theme Gets $250 Award

The deadline for submission of essays to the Philip Sher Essay Contest is 4 p.m., March 5. There will be a single cash award of $250 for the prize winning essay which will be presented at the annual Honors Day Convocation, March 13.

All undergraduate students carrying 12 hours or more and maintaining a C average are eligible to enter the contest. The only ineligibles are previous winners.

The essay must be entitled "RACIAL AND RELIGIOUS MUTUAL RESPECT". It should contain a statement of the problem as well as a consideration of the solutions. It may be a formal research program as well as a general statement of the individual authors conclusions. The term race may be interpreted to mean "natural origin". The essay should deal with racial and religious problems only in the United States.

The essays will be judged on originality, thoroughness and expression. In the event the judges feel no essay is worthy of the prize, none will be given.

The essay should contain no less than 2,000 words and no more than 3,000. It must be typed, double spaced on one side of standard 8½" by 11" paper.

Dr. Philip Sher, the late Omaha physician, started offering the prize in 1954. It was to go to the Omaha University student writing the best essay promoting understanding among peoples of diverse religions and races. Because of the enthusiastic response Dr. Sher set up the $250 award on a permanent basis in 1955.

Those students desiring additional information should apply to Adm. room 240.

Military Grads To Apply Soon

Bootstrappers planning to graduate in March must apply for their degrees by February 29, according to Roy W. Nolte, director of the University military program.

Nolte pointed out that application is made in the Office of the Registrar and urged all concerned to do so as soon as possible to insure receiving their diplomas on schedule.

With reference to incoming bootstrappers, Nolte pointed out that this is the largest February enrollment in the history of the program; in 1962 there were 108 bootstrappers, in 1963 this had increased to 275 and the current enrollment is expected to reach 330 including retired personnel and nurses.

Viewing one of the paintings now on exhibit in the Student Center this student had the classic comment: "I don't know much about art but I know what I like." His only problem turned out to be deciding which way he liked it the most, right side up or otherwise. His conclusion: it didn't really make much difference.

4 Art Students Win Merit Awards

Four University of Omaha students were recipients of awards of merit at the Central Intercollegiate Conference Student Art Exhibit.

Robert Austin and Nancy Norton each won awards in oils.

Austin's painting is entitled "Landscape"; Miss Norton's work, "Figure Study".

Intaglio print award went to Lloyd Menard and Louise Stenez took honors for her ink drawing of "Man and Horse". Entries came from Emporia State University, Fort Hays State, Washburn University, Pittsburg State and OU.

The exhibit, which began last Tuesday, will run until the end of February.

The show is sponsored by the Student Center Program Committee and the Art department. The exhibit is being held in S.C. Room 312.

Former News Director Is Audio Technician For Omaha U Station

A former news director and a current audio technician for station KWOU, Larry Scott, junior, knows the stress and responsibility involved in radio and television work.

Larry, whose home is Falls City, Nebraska, became interested in radio work when, after graduating from high school in 1958, he began working for a local radio station, KTMC.

It was at KTMC that Scott began to learn the rudiments of the radio broadcasting business. His odd jobs at the station finally developed into his own, one-man show. "I used to spend 15 or 16 hours a day, working to prepare the show, including broadcasting the show myself," he said.

In 1960, Larry left KTMC to go to Denver where he worked on Station KFML, broadcasting to residents of the Cherry Creek Center. He was there only three months when he received an offer to become branch manager to a satellite station of KTMC back in Falls City, which he accepted.

His new job brought with it new and demanding tasks. Larry had to gather local news, write and edit it, procure advertisers, program his shows, give weather forecasts and myriads of other tasks that "had to be done." "I had to put in two hours of work for every hour on the air," he remarked.

Larry said there are many problems in programming and broadcasting that the average listener isn't aware of. "Programming is important because it must be specialized for the particular listening audience," he said. "Radio in a community,

Completion Set For Fall Enrollment

Lab, Class, Office Space Included

The general construction contract for the second addition to the Applied Arts building has been awarded to the Hawkins Construction Company of Omaha.

Their bid of $151,727 was low among the nine general contractors submitting bids.

The heating and plumbing contract went to the Mainelli Plumbing and Heating Company of Omaha who was the low bidder with $25,075 among seven other contractors. Their work will include the heating, ventilating, air conditioning and plumbing facilities.

The low bid for the electrical wiring for the addition was submitted by the David Baxter & Sons Company. Their bid of $20,870 was accepted by the Board of Regents as were the other two.

The completion date for the addition is September 1, 1964. The ground breaking ceremonies and the moving in of construction equipment will be sometime within the next week to ten days.

The ten thousand square foot building will house a time and motion study laboratory, and electric computer center, classrooms and four offices. The addition will be 60 feet wide and 83 feet long.

The original Applied Arts building was opened to students in September of 1960. The first addition was completed in September of 1962. The new wing will follow the design of the present Applied Arts structure.

Puppets Will Perform

The Omaha University German Club will present a puppet play entirely in German.

The play entitled, "Pechvogel und Gluckskind," is named for the leading characters. It was adapted for the club's use by David Moore, club sponsor.

Girls Have Good Odds

Female students have the odds in favor of them by a margin of 2 to 1 this leap year Valentine's Day. Male students on Omaha University's campus number 5,208 as compared to 2,248 female students, according to Registrar Virgil Sharpe.

Total enrollment for the Spring semester is 7,456 students. Last spring the enrollment was 7,232 or 224 less than now.

Three thousand two hundred and thirty one students are taking twelve hours or more to be classified as full time students. Part time students, those with less than twelve hours, number 4,225. Over 900 bootstrappers are included in these figures.

One sociology class had to be expanded to facilitate the number of students wanting to take the course, officials say. This is just one example of the increasing popularity of the Municipal University. More students are realizing that it is possible to work and go to school at the same time.

Bus. Ad. College Gets New Offices

Construction is finished on additional office space for the College of Business Administration and the Academic Testing and Counseling Dept.

An area from the Student Health office extending to the north end of the corridor on the second floor of the Administration Building were converted into office space for the College of Business Administration.

Problems in live presentation of the show are many and unexpected, demanding both physically and mentally on the broadcaster. "It's hard to be cheerful all the time," he commented. "I use to have to practice saying 'Hello' happily!" Having a quick sense of humor, he continued, "And then there was always the problem of hiccoughs on the air." When asked what he did under the circumstances he replied, "I played a lot of music!"

Larry began attending OU in 1962 to major in psychology. He is undecided as to whether he will minor in Radio and TV. He is presently the audio man for KWOU's participation in TV Classroom.

Upon graduation from the university, Larry hopes to go into clinical psychology.

The series of ten lectures is presented each Wednesday between 4-5 p.m. in the Marine Room of the Gene Eppley Conference Center and is free to all who wish to come.

Two of the lectures are to be presented on location. The fourth lecture is to be presented at the WOW television and radio station. The seventh lecture will be held at Allen and Reynolds Advertising agency.

New Class Will Study "Modest" Killer's Action

Reinhardt: See Why They Do It

A visiting lecturer to the University of Omaha is teaching one of the most unusual classes ever to be offered here.

The course is Psychology of Criminal Behavior. The lecturer is Dr. James M. Reinhardt, a former professor of Sociology at the University of Nebraska.

According to Dr. Reinhardt, the course is a new concept in teaching criminology. It is concerned with the motivations of criminal behavior and why people commit crimes. He added that case histories of criminals are to be discussed in the class, particularly those pertaining to horrible crimes committed by persons of modest behavior.

"People who were never in serious trouble have committed some of the most horrible deeds in the annals of crime," Reinhardt said. "Some force builds up within the individual and it becomes a compulsion to do something violent. On the other hand, this build up may be sudden, such as a pressurous circumstance. 'One person with a retiring personality who felt he was rejected by society had no tangible idea why he had killed,'" the doctor added.

The first group of discussions in the class which meets at 7 p.m. on Tuesday nights, will deal with juvenile delinquency. Dr. Reinhardt is now studying 14 murders by teenagers which he termed as, "senseless". All the teenagers, according to Reinhardt, had a prolonged sense of neglect. Although in most of the cases the teenager had an adult to look up to, the adult usually paid little attention to him.

"In most of the serious crimes, such as sex offenses, murders and assault, the person was usually not rewarded for little things he had done in the past," Reinhardt said. "Coupled with this was the fact that he hadn't acquired any values during his formative years. The ultimate act was to kill someone and in most cases when asked why he had committed murder the reply was usually, 'I just wanted to see what it was like'."

Dr. Reinhardt said he had suggested some time ago the recent proposal to have the Nebraska Parole Board comprised of experts.

He continued, "It will work if they get the right people. A planned board can be a failure if it is comprised of 'experts' who know nothing of the conditions. Such 'experts' have made blunders in the past." He added that one possible checkpoint for this proposal would be to attach consultants to the board and make the board's judgment the final word.

Big Weekend Set For Newman Club

This week end will be a busy one for members of the Omaha University Newman Club. Starting tonight the club will:

- Entertain children at the St. James Orphanage with members meeting in the St. Margaret Mary's parking lot at 7 p.m.
- Members have been invited to Lincoln by the Nebraska University Newman Club to attend the Leadership Day which begins tomorrow morning at eight o'clock.

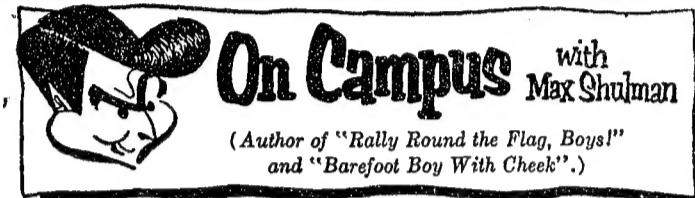

- The first club meeting of the second semester will be held Sunday at 7 p.m. at St. Margaret Mary's church. A report on Saturday's proceedings in Lincoln will be discussed.

ROTC Commandant Makes Second Visit

Colonel Robert H. Allyn, AFROTC Area F Commandant, made his second visit to the University of Omaha last Wednesday to discuss ROTC procedure with Lieutenant Colonel Emilio P. Ratti.

His first visit was in November, 1963, during which time he familiarized himself with the University AFROTC Detachment and personnel.

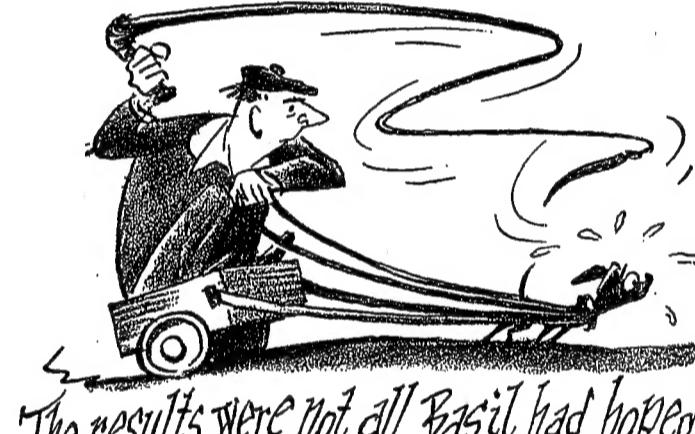

Col. Allyn is responsible for the AFROTC programs in Nebraska, Iowa and other mid-western states. He is responsible to the Commandant of National AFROTC program Brigadier General William C. Lindley.

ARF!

Benjamin Franklin (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is better known as) said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and we, the college population of America, have taken to heart this sage advice. We spend prudently; we budget diligently. Yet, despite our wise precautions, we are always running short. Why? Because there is one item of expense that we consistently underestimate—the cost of travelling home for weekends.

Let us take the typical case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at UCLA majoring in avocados. Basil, a resident of Bangor, Maine, loved to go home each weekend to play with his faithful dog, Spot. What joy, what wreathed smiles, when Basil and Spot were re-united! Basil would leap into his dogcart, and Spot, a genuine Alaskan husky, would pull Basil all over Bangor, Maine—Basil calling cheery halloos to the townfolk, Spot wagging his curly tail.

But the cost, alas, of travelling from UCLA to Bangor, Maine, ran to $400 a week, and Basil's father, alas, earned only a meagre salary as a meter-reader for the Bangor water department. So, alas, after six months Basil's father told Basil he could raise no more money; he had already sold everything he owned, including the flashlight he used to read meters.

Basil returned to California to ponder his dilemma. One solution occurred to him—to ship Spot to UCLA and keep him in his room—but Basil had to abandon the notion because of his roommate, G. Fred Sigafoos, who was, alas, allergic to dog hair.

Then another idea came to Basil—a stroke of genius, you might call it. He would buy a Mexican hairless chihuahua! Thus he would have a dog to pull him around, and G. Fred's allergy would be undisturbed.

The results, alas, were not all Basil had hoped. The chihuahua, alas, was unable to pull Basil in the dogcart, no matter how energetically he beat the animal.

Defeated again, Basil sat down with G. Fred, his roommate, to smoke a Marlboro Cigarette and seek a new answer to the problem. Together they smoked and thought and—Eureka!—an answer quickly appeared. (I do not suggest, mark you, that Marlboro Cigarettes are an aid to cerebration. All I say about Marlboros is that they taste good and are made of fine tobaccos and pure white filters and come in soft pack or Flip Top box.)

Well, sir, Basil and G. Fred got a great idea. Actually, the idea was G. Fred's, who happened to be majoring in genetics. Why not, said G. Fred, cross-breed the chihuahua with a Great Dane and thus produce an animal sturdy enough to pull a dogcart?

It was, alas, another plan doomed to failure. The cross-breed was done, but the result (this is very difficult to explain) was a raccoon.

But there is, I am pleased to report, a happy ending to this heart-rending tale. It seems that Basil's mother (this is also very difficult to explain) is a glamorous blond aged 19 years. One day she was spotted by a talent scout in Bangor, Maine, and was signed to a fabulous movie contract, and the entire family moved to California and bought Bel Air, and today one of the most endearing sights to be seen on the entire Pacific Coast is Spot pulling Basil down Sunset Boulevard—Basil cheering and Spot wagging. Basil's mother is also happy, making glamorous movies all day long, and Basil's father is likewise content, sitting at home and reading the water meter.

Ex-Bootstrapper Dice Returns For M.A.

A new film reader for micro film has been donated to the library by graduate student Harry Dice who has returned to Omaha University as a civilian.

Lt. Col. Dice received his BGE degree in 1960 under the Bootstrap program and has returned to do graduate work because he likes it here so well.

He is writing his thesis on the "History of the Omaha Fire Department from 1860-1960" and has to do a lot of newspaper research. The $550.00 donation came when Mr. Dice had trouble with the 25 year old film reading machine the library had. He explains his donation as having "a selfish motive in a way".

Mr. Dice was in the service for 21 years and now desires a new career as a college professor. He plans to receive his M.A. degree in History in August.

Washburn Game Could Be Big Factor In CIC Race

Tomorrow night's game with Washburn could be one of the most important games this season for Jim Borsheim and his Indian basketball squad.

The meeting with the Ichabods on their home floor could be a deciding factor in the race for the C.I.C. title between the Indians and Emporia State. If Washburn wins it will knock OU out of the league lead. If the Indians win it will usher in the all-important title game against Emporia on February 27.

The Indian wrestlers ended a four match losing streak as they took a 19-11 triumph over Graceland last Saturday.

Williams Ties World 60-Yard Dash Record

Roger Sayers congratulates Terry Williams after Terrific Terry had just equaled the world mark for the 60-yd. dash.

60-Yard Dash Awaits A Double OU Assault

by Mike Moran

What could be the greatest attraction in Omaha University athletic history will be on display tonight at the Fieldhouse and a record throng appears in the offing.

The magnet expected to lure the fans is the torrid sprint duo of Rocket Roger Sayers and Terry Williams of Omaha. Just over a week ago tonight, Williams clawed his way to a tie for the world record in the 60-yard dash with a fantastic clocking of 6.0.

The opposition for tonight will be two of the Midwest's more formidable track machines, South Dakota University's Coyotes, and the Hornets of Emporia State.

The Kansans will bring their fine distance runners John Camien and Ireland Sloan as chief weapons in an arsenal which carried them to the CIC title last spring.

Dan Lennon's Coyotes, weakened by graduation, will counter with a young sprinter by the name of Leonard Kliment of Wausau, Nebraska. Kliment won the 50 last week in a triangular with Drake and Iowa State with a 5.6 clocking.

Switch for Terry

This week, Williams will run the 440 for the Indians. The race will precede the 60 by about 15 minutes. Last week Sayers won the quarter and then had little rest before losing the record dash to the Omaha Central soph. The Rocket had a 6.1 in his losing effort.

Coach Lloyd Cardwell, obviously happy as a father with twins, is gloating with satisfaction over the ability of the two sprinters to push each other to record times. While it is not a proven fact as yet, it appears that Omaha U. just may possess the fastest pair of dash men in the country for one school.

Williams' record was a surprise to some because it was believed that he was a better 220 yard dash prospect than the shorter distances. He had a 9.5 clocking in the 100 last year but with his strength and size seemed better fit for the longer dashes.

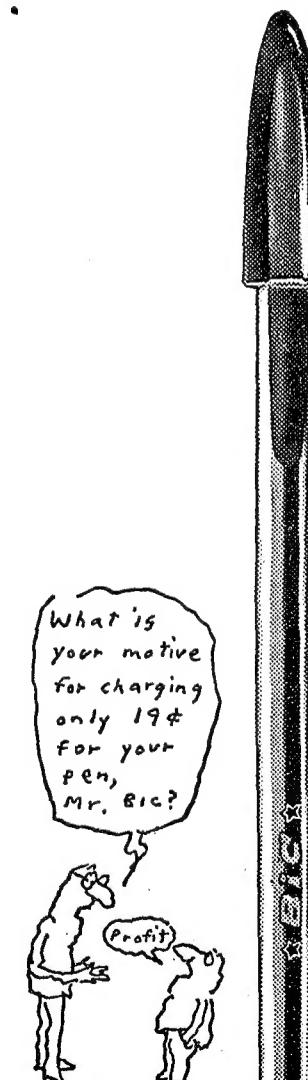

Sayers, while obviously disgruntled with the loss to his pal, agreed that Terry will help him more than anything else in this year of the Olympic trials. In fact, Williams just might push Roger all the way to the Games if last week was any measuring stick of what is to come.

Gould Shows Promise

One of the equally bright spots of the triangular last week was the showing of Lyons, Nebraska, sophomore Ken Gould. The lithe little guy won the mile in an OU record time of 4:27.0 and wasn't extended. Later in the week he finished second in an indoor meet in Minneapolis with a 4:21.3 mark.

Field events start at 7:00 tonight with the 60 yard dash prelims scheduled for 7:45. Be early if you like to sit.
